Goal & Objective

1. To know the readiness of students for Medical education 2. To know what are their views about vocation after graduation 3. To understand their concept of bed-side/ lab-based/ web-site medical practice in vogue 4. To gauge their understanding of doctor-patient relationship 5. To assess their knowledge about Emerging & re-emerging global diseases 6. To get their views on MBBS teaching in Hindi or other native language

Collaboration

Outcomes

It turned out to be a fruitful exercise. The students are ready for MBBS. They have many options in their mind beyond MBBS like PG, Civil service, self practice, hospital administration, going abroad etc. They are well aware that the bed-side medical practice is slowly being replaced by lab-based and tele-medicine assisted medical practice. They value the doctor-patient relationship the most. They are knowledgeable about Emerging & re-emerging global diseases such as HIV to Covid. They are not against MBBS being taught in native language but they feel that the change should be partial and should be brought about in a slow and phased manner.
